WE WILL HELP YOU

The Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands launched HortiNigeria Project in Abuja, Nigeria, in March 2022. The Dutch-funded four-year program, anchored by International Fertilizer Development Centre (IFDC), focuses on boosting the production of tomatoes, pepper, onions and okra in four pilot states: Kaduna, Kano, Ogun and Oyo. Alford Conferences Limited served as the publicity manager of the event.

Can Nigeria feed itself adequately, and have a large surplus for export, like the Netherlands?

On behalf of Alford Conferences Limited/REVENUE Magazine, and the summit Strategic Event Partner (Standup for Women Society, SWS), we are pleased to invite you to participate in the 1st Nigeria Food Surplus Summit, slated for Abuja, FCT, November 20-22, 2024. You can participate as a partner, sponsor, exhibitor, advertiser, speaker, summit delegate, award guest, journalist, etc.

The annual summit seeks to help Nigeria to successfully feed itself and have a large surplus for export by strengthening the commercial farming, food processing, and agricultural machinery segments of the country's agricultural industry. For decades, up till this present moment, the burden of feeding this country of over 220 million people has rested largely on the shoulders of its millions of smallholder farmers. The summit seeks to strongly complement this by deliberately promoting and boosting commercial farming, food processing, and the production of agricultural machinery on a large scale in each of the 36 states and FCT, partnering actively with their respective ministry of agriculture.

Significantly boosting agricultural production in 2024 and beyond, has become a MUST for Nigeria. Our GDP has largely stagnated in the past 10 years: 2013 ($520.12 billion), 2014 ($574.18 billion), 2015 ($493.03 billion), 2016 ($404.65 billion), 2017 ($375.75 billion), 2018 ($421.74 billion), 2019 ($474.52 billion), 2020 ($432.20 billion), 2021 ($440.83 billion), and 2022 ($477.39 billion). Meanwhile, our population during this period has continued to grow very rapidly: 2013 (174.73 million), 2014 (179.38 million), 2015 (184.00 million), 2016 (188.67 million), 2017 (193.50 million), 2018 (198.39 million), 2019 (203.30 million), 2020 (208.33 million), 2021 (213.40 million), and 2022 (218.54 million). The GDP shrank by about $43 billion in 2022 compared to the figure of 2013, while the population increased by about 44 million during this 10 years period. By these stats, even a layman can see that the country today is already in a deep hole economically. Several radical moves MUST be taken by the government as well as by the private sector (in liaison with the public sector) to reverse this trend on an urgent note. The annual Nigeria Food Surplus Summit is our own contribution in this regard.

Ahead of the inaugural summit, we shall embark on a roadshow to the 36 states and FCT to sensitize and mobilize various stakeholders for the event, leveraging the capacity and resources of the ministry of agriculture in each of them. We recommend for each of these 37 subnationals a summit delegation, drawn from the state ministry of agriculture, other designated state MDAs, and selected local government areas (LGAs) of the state. As part of this nationwide roadshow, expected to be held from September 1-October 31, 2024, we shall also reach out to the agribusiness equipment manufacturers and suppliers, food processing companies, and leading commercial farms in each state, encouraging them to sign them up for the summit as well. We use this opportunity to thank Barr. (Mrs.) Abosede Deborah Ijadele-Adetona, President of Standup for Women Society, and her team, for accepting to partner with us to effectively reach out to the ministry of agriculture of all these subnationals.

A report on agricultural industry financing in Nigeria, sponsored by the Netherlands Enterprise Agency, and published in April 2022, show that the country's deposit money banks (DMBs) gave an average of about 5% of their collective total loans to the industry in 2020. We ask that Nigeria's DMBs should find creative and sustainable ways, in 2024 and in subsequent years, to deliberately increase their loan portfolio to the industry, far above this average of 5%. We have commissioned a special report titled, "Commercial Bank Lending to the Nigerian Agricultural Industry 2018-2022" to be published in the November 2024 edition of REVENUE (the official magazine of the summit). This report will present data and insights on lending by these banks to the country's agricultural industry over the past five years: January 2018-December 31, 2022. Copies of this edition of would be distributed specially to the Federal Ministry of Agriculture and Food Security, Central Bank of

At the 2nd West Africa Fertilizer Stakeholders Forum held in Abuja, Nigeria, in May 2016, Alford Conferences Limited served as the adviser on Nigerian stakeholders' engagement and the publicity manager of the event. Mr. Frederick Apeji, CEO of Alford Conferences (left), and some of the VIPs at the event.

Nigeria (CBN), the ministry of agriculture of the 36 states (including the FCT equivalent), other critical public sector agencies and bodies, the Abuja-based diplomatic office of the leading trade partners of Nigeria, leading international development organizations in Nigeria, summit partners, and other critical stakeholders. The magazine will be distributed as well to all the summit attendees.

We believe that agribusiness is a low-hanging fruit in Nigeria, if handled well, with a strong, consistent and sustainable political will displayed by the state governors. While many of these states struggle, year in year out, to raise enough internally generated revenue (IGR) to fund their developmental projects, agribusiness can come very handy for them.

In addition to Standup for Women Society (SWS), we desire the partnership of other critical organizations for the inaugural summit: the leading agricultural trade associations, Federal Ministry of Agriculture and Food Security, Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN), Office of the FCT Minister (designated host city of the inaugural event), Forum of State Commissioners of Agriculture, Wageningen University & Research in the Netherlands, Agri-Logic Netherlands, Netherlands Enterprise Agency, etc. As indicated in the table above, Nigeria has a lot to learn and benefit from the Netherlands, and the summit encourages even greater levels of cooperation between the agricultural ecosystem of both countries in 2024 and beyond.

A major highpoint of the 1st Nigeria Food Surplus Summit 2024 will be the presentation of the Nigeria Agribusiness 100 Awards to honour and celebrate 100 outstanding and impactful agribusiness equipment manufacturers and suppliers, food processing companies, and leading commercial farms across the federation. We shall also present the Nigeria Agribusiness Finance Awards to honour and celebrate the country's deserving commercial banks in two categories: the top 5 biggest lenders to the Nigerian agricultural industry in the past five years (2018-2022), and the top 5 biggest lenders to the industry as a percentage of their total lending during this period. And finally, we shall honour the Nigerian State Governor of the Year in Agribusiness.
